

Two-page numeric citation fixture

Page one keeps citations separate from the bibliography. Stable identity is introduced in the first source [1]. Layout recovery is evaluated independently [2]. A final claim combines all evidence [1–3].

This paragraph exists to preserve realistic body flow while keeping the fixture deterministic. The bibliography begins only after an explicit page break.

References

- [1] Nguyen, A. (2024). Stable Evidence Identity for Document Review. Journal of Reproducible Assessment, 8(2), 10–21.
- [2] Tran, B., and Le, C. (2023). Recovering Reading Order from Portable Documents. Proceedings of Document Engineering, 101–112.
- [3] Pham, D. (2022). Citation Linking Across Page Boundaries. Software Quality Notes, 5(4), 7–15. doi:10.0000/cross-page.3